

ALEXANDRIA, VA.

MONDAY EVENING, OCT. 24

The Crippen trial, which closed in London on Saturday with the prisoner's conviction, after half an hour's deliberation by the jury, was in many respects a model exhibition of the processes of criminal law. The jury was obtained expeditiously and the time was not wasted by irrelevant discussion. The lord chief justice assisted the jury by incisive questions, especially when expert witnesses were likely to bewilder them with technicalities. He also protected witnesses exposed to cross examination, and was helpful to Crippen himself at critical stages of the testimony. Counsel on both sides were kept under restraint and were not allowed to abuse their privileges by introducing unfair comment when they were examining witnesses or dealing with the experts. The manners of counsel were perfect and the lord chief justice, both in the general conduct of the case and in his lucid charge to the jury, was the embodiment of impartiality.

DR. WOODROW WILSON, whose resignation as president of Princeton University was accepted by the trustees on Thursday, in the course of his stamping tour of New Jersey as the democratic candidate for governor has formulated his programme of political reforms, as follows: Corrupt practices legislation, a reorganization of the state's business, a public service commission with rate-making power, the conservation and regulation of water power and sites and direct primaries. He declares that the big corporation heads now rule the nation and charges that the republicans are tied up to big business.

The long expected break between the United States Steel Corporation and the jobbers who have handled its output is recognized in the recent decision of the trust to open warehouses in New York, Pittsburgh and other important centers. Now the jobbers are said to be planning an independent steel plant at Cleveland to supply their houses. The trust has withdrawn all price concessions to the jobbers, and sent agents throughout the west and south to solicit warehouse orders direct. The various trusts are well entrenched in this country now and it will take drastic measures to dislodge them.

The late David B. Hill was a total abstainer, as his acquaintances well remember. At a public dinner up the state, a few years ago, Mr. Hill was the guest of honor. As the ex-senator sat down he turned his wine glass upside down and smiling across the table at his secretary, Peter J. Manville, remarked: "Remember your duty, Peter." "What does the senator mean, 'Pete'?" asked a newspaper man. "You know he doesn't drink smoke or cuss," replied Manville, "and he expects me to do all three for him."

SPEAKING in Boston Friday night Mr. Roosevelt, who showed symptoms of being a progressive along tariff lines, said that the defeat of Senator Lodge would be a calamity. Usually people think that the defeat of Lodge would be a calamity only to special privileges.

FROM WASHINGTON.

President Taft will make no announcement regarding the man he will choose to fill the place of the now Commerce Court, nor the vacancies on the supreme bench, until the day on which Congress meets. This semi-official announcement came from the White House today to meet the pressure which has been brought on the president by the friends of a couple of hundred candidates for the jobs. The president now has the following offerings: One chief justice and one associate justice of the Supreme Court of the United States; five places on the Commerce Court, the appointees of which must be circuit judges, five circuit judges to take the place of those elevated to the Commerce Court, and probably a successor to Interstate Commerce Commissioner F. M. Cockrell, whose term expires in December and who will probably retire. A lawyer will also be selected by the president to succeed the late Lloyd W. Bowers as solicitor general.

A disturbance that is now making over the North Pacific Ocean will, according to Chief Moore, of the United States Weather Bureau, cause unsettled and rainy weather for the first part of this week in the North Pacific States and in the latter part of the week will cause like conditions in the middle and northern states from the Missouri Valley to the Atlantic coast. Following this wave, Professor Moore declares, a moderate cool wave will advance eastward across the country. It is expected that this wave will reach the Atlantic States by the last of the week.

Oscar S. Straus, ambassador to Turkey and former colleague in the Roosevelt cabinet with President Taft, called at the White House today with cheerful news as to the republican outlook in New York. "I think Stimson will undoubtedly carry the state," he declared, but Mr. Straus does not appear to be posted.

Arthur Heinze, brother of F. Augustus Heinze, the Montana miner, will have to spend ten days in the custody of the United States Marshall and pay a fine of $200 for inducing a witness to flee to Canada, according to a decision made today by the federal court of New York asked the Supreme Court to review the case. This it refused to do. The present case in an incident in the investigation of the charges against F. Augustus Heinze for a violation of the national banking act. In connection with that affair a subpoena was issued summoning Tracy S. Buckingham before the grand jury. Arthur Heinze was charged with giving him a hundred dollars to get out of the country which he did by fleeing to Canada.

The judicial branch of the government shook hands with the executive branch when the seven members of the U. S. Supreme Court called at the White House, at 11 o'clock today. Tradition, and the strict ceremonial of the court prescribe that the members shall pay their respects to the chief executive at the beginning of the term. This year President Taft was at Beverly when the court convened and today was the first opportunity the justices had to meet him. For the first time in 22 years a member of the court was missed in his accustomed place at the head of the line. The honor of leading the court belongs to the chief justice and for years the late Melville W. Fuller has performed this duty. Today John M. Harlan, presiding justice and senior member of the court was in his place. It was the first visit of Justice Hughes to the White House in his official capacity.

An effort will be made by the National Monetary Commission, it was stated by an official connected with the commission, to agree upon and introduce at the next session of Congress a bill providing for reform in the currency system. A meeting of the commission are hopeful that the bill may be passed at the coming session of Congress. As it will be a short session, however, closing on March 4, the general belief is that such an important measure cannot be enacted in such limited time. Introduction and discussion of the bill might serve to bring the measure to the attention of Congress and the country and pave the way for action in some future Congress. Senator Aldrich is chairman of the commission which was appointed by Congress two years ago to invent an improved currency system.

The census bureau today announced that the population of Connecticut is 1,114,756; an increase of 206,336, or 22.7 per cent. This gives Connecticut another representative in Congress. Swift retribution, called down upon him by the ministers of this city, resulted in Harvey Oliver Brown proposing a building wrecker, who ten days ago married Eugenie Adams, a German girl for $200, appearing in police court today as complaining witness against a negro woman whom he charged with robbing him of $141. "All he had left of the wedding ring," having been forced to shave off his mustache, for years the pride of his heart, because he was recognized everywhere as the "two hundred-dollar husband."

Brown was a sad sight compared with dapper "heart wrecker" who gaily sold his name to the girl, who had to marry within a certain time in order to comply with the terms of an uncle's will in the old country. Brown told the court that he was walking along the street last evening when he saw Irene Blackburn, the prisoner, posing for a picture before a street photographer. "As I passed, she begged me to pay for the picture," said Brown. "I had my money carefully concealed and I told her if she would wait while I stepped into a vacant house, I would give her the quarter. She followed me and I am sure she picked up my pocketbook which I must have dropped on the floor. She took the pocketbook, declaring that she volunteered to pay for the picture. She said he gave her the quarter, adding, 'and that was all of money I seen him wit.' Judge Malloway held the woman for the grand jury, fixing her bond at $500. Brown declared that he had had nothing but bad luck since the parting at the altar when he bid farewell to his bride, who is now on her way to Europe, to inherit a fortune upon the presentation of her wedding certificate. She also has a signed agreement which excludes Brown from the inheritance. "Money talks, but all it says is just good-bye to me," commented Brown as he strolled disconsolately out of the courtroom. "I guess I'll go back to work."

Oral arguments were begun this afternoon before the Supreme Court of the United States in the libel suit brought by the government against the publishers of the New York World at the order of President Roosevelt. The case now hinges upon the question of the jurisdiction of the U. S. courts, the indictment having been quashed in the Circuit Court. It is the outgrowth of an article asserting that big profits were made by Americans out of the sale of the Panama Canal to the United States, in which Roosevelt, Taft and others are alleged to have been libeled. J. F. McReynolds, deputy attorney general, appeared for the government and Delaney Nicoll for the World. Attorney General Wickham was in constant attendance.

The body of Frederick Stewart, of 417 Virginia avenue, southeast, who has been missing since Wednesday last, was found today in the Potomac river near the Aqueduct bridge. Stewart was the third man in the boat, loaded with pig iron, which sank Thursday night, drowning its three occupants.

Killed By Mud Streams From Vesuvius. Rome, Oct. 24.—At least ten persons were killed today by being buried in mud streams that were thrown from Vesuvius, whose activity was occasioned by a terrific cloudburst. Two families were buried at Torre del Greco and several victims are reported from Ceters.

The King of Siam is dead from uremia. He succeeded to the throne in 1908.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

Former Senator Foraker in an address at Marysville, Ohio, Saturday, delivered a campaign speech attacking the new nationalism.

Mr. Andrew Carnegie, Judge George Gray, of Delaware, and Archbishop Riordan, of San Francisco, returned to New York on the Baltic yesterday.

The French government considers the negotiations for a loan of $30,000,000 to Turkey as ended, Turkey having refused the financial guarantees requested by France.

A steel company of Pittsburgh this week begins work on the 46 steel locks or sets of gates for the Panama canal, requiring about 60,000 tons of steel and to cost $5,500,000.

Roosevelt on His Tour.

Ithaca, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Theodore Roosevelt today returned to the attack on John A. Dix, democratic candidate for governor, in a speech from the Ithaca Hotel balcony. A handful of people heard the speech in which Roosevelt denounced Dix as a member of the wall paper trust.

Indianapolis, Oct. 24.—When Theodore Roosevelt said in his Indianapolis speech that he had no fear as to the outcome of the fight of Senator Albert J. Beveridge for re-election to the United States Senate, he made a broader observation than careful observers of Indiana politics are willing to make today. With the campaign within two weeks of an end, conservative politicians are a unit in declaring that conditions are so confusing that they do not care publicly to make a prediction.

A feature of this campaign is the reticence of the voters. The thirty-day poll shows that there are thousands of voters who will not state their intentions.

Efforts of members of both parties to poll their own precinct have failed. At Anderson and Columbus, where the latest precinct polls have been attempted, one-third of the democrats and republicans declined to say how they would vote. This phase of the situation worries the leaders.

County option and the liquor question are paramount issues. Senator Beveridge and the republican leaders have been careful to avoid the subject. The democratic issue strong, and it will not be surprising, according to party leaders of both sides, if it plays a prominent part in legislative districts where the contests are close. Both sides are drawing big crowds at the political meetings and both are predicting victory. Senator Beveridge's managers claim they will have at least 25 majority on joint ballot. The democrats claim that John Kern will have a majority of at least 20 on joint ballot, and maybe forty.

New York, Oct. 24.—Because Miss Field and Abraham Zaks refuse to postpone their wedding, scheduled for Oct. 29, Col. Theodore Roosevelt if he keeps his engagement to speak in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn on that night will have to speak in that section. The only public hall in that section has been engaged for the wedding and reception and the bride and groom to be positively refuse to give way to the Roosevelt wedding.

So Reuben L. Haskell, republican leader in the district, has secured an order on the hall in Trommer's brewery, next door to Evergreen Cemetery and will hold the Roosevelt meeting there.

The Dusseldorf Wins Race.

St. Louis, Oct. 24.—The German balloon Dusseldorf won the international balloon race for the Gordon Bennett Cup, according to the revised figures of the St. Louis Aero Club today. The Dusseldorf reported Saturday night, the landing place being measured as 1,240 miles from St. Louis. This beats the Germania, first reported the winner, by about 40 miles, and Gerick and Perkins, crew of the Dusseldorf, will be awarded the cup unless the America II is found at a point still further away than the Dusseldorf.

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 24.—Up to noon today none of the provincial government departments had received any definite word about the missing racing balloon America II, from St. Louis. It is believed that the American came down in the wilds of Algoma and not in the Lake St. John region, Quebec.

St. Louis, Oct. 24.—A telegram from Thompsonville, Mich., received this morning by Albert Bond Lambert, president of the Aero Club of St. Louis, contains information regarding Alan R. Hawley and Augustus Post in the missing balloon America II. It eliminates to some extent the growing fear that the aeronauts had fallen into Lake Huron or perished in Eastern Quebec, unable to return to civilization.

The telegram says: "America II passed over the farm Tuesday, course due west. A farmer asked us to report these facts. Balloon passed west of St. Ignace, Mich., and was just over Suttons Bay at dark. Talked with people eight miles north of our town, who saw lettering on balloon."

E. S. NORTHROP.

New York Stock Market. New York, October 24.—The stock market at the opening today was with decided tones and price changes in the first few minutes were mixed. After the first fifteen minutes the market was subjected to a moderate amount of pressure, and prices in the rest of the hour joined in the downward movement, losses ranging from fractions to about 1.2 points.

A steadier tone prevailed after the first hour, and toward midday some recoveries were noted in many of the important railroads and industrials.

Funeral of the Late D. R. Hill.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Distinguished men and ladies from all parts of the state attended the funeral of ex-Senator David B. Hill this afternoon. The service was held in St. Peter's Church. The body of the former democratic leader was taken from Wolfers Roost this morning and for four hours lay in state in the lower room of the church. Members of the democratic state committee and the democratic Editorial Association of the state and the Albany county committee met at the Ten Eyck and attended the service in a body.

DAY FIXED FOR HANGING.

Doctor Crippen to be Executed November 8—Miss Leneve Faints When Told of the Doctor's Fate.

London, Oct. 24.—Following a conference with the prison authorities, Lord Chief Justice Alverstone today definitely fixed the date for the hanging of Dr. H. H. Crippen, convicted on Saturday of the murder of his wife, Belle Elmore, for Tuesday November 8. Crippen's attorneys are already preparing for their appeal to the Court of Criminal Appeals, although it is admitted that there is only the slightest chance that this body will interfere with the decision of the lower court. Crippen had recovered his composure today and continued to protest his innocence. When offered religious consolation he became indignant and said that he was more interested in getting his rights than in listening to a priest.

Crippen will be hanged in Pentonville prison should his appeal fail, as is expected, unless the home secretary intervenes and recommends to the crown that he be reprieved.

Miss Leneve is prostrated today. She had fully expected that Dr. Crippen would be acquitted, thus necessitating her own release. When she received the word that Crippen had been convicted and sentenced to death she fainted and it was some time before the prison doctor could restore her to consciousness. She is the wife of a chemist, who is the subject of a charge of accessory after the fact, which will begin tomorrow.

So far as the scope of the appeal is concerned Attorney Newton said today that it was uncertain. He cannot decide until he has had a conference with his client and he today asked the authorities to authorize the interview.

Call for Aid a Hoax.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 24.—Every wireless equipped steamer within range today is searching for the missing Oklahoma, which last night supposedly signalled for aid, but neglected to give her position. Failure to find her caused some to think the call false, and gave others serious anxiety. From here to the Nantuxet Shoals lightship the revenue cutter Acushnet has made a search without avail, and all this coast has been crossed from wireless station to station in the hope of locating the ship, but without success.

The call for help was first heard by the Acushnet when she was near Wood's Hole, but communication was broken in a minute and the revenue cutter repeated the word all up and down the coast, putting to sea herself in the search.

The Oklahoma, Captain Gunter, is a steel screw steamship of 3,795 tons, built at Camden, N. J., in 1908, and owned by the J. M. Guffey Petroleum Company. Its sailing port is Port Arthur. It is 419 feet long and 55 feet in breadth.

In the absence of any further word up to noon, direct or indirect from the Oklahoma, the authorities of the naval wireless station here who were in communication with stations all up and down the coast, declared their belief that the call for aid was a hoax. Of the ships communicated with, none had seen or heard of the Oklahoma being in trouble.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 24.—The wireless dispatch picked up last night reporting the oil tanker Oklahoma sinking off the coast was a fake. The revenue cutter Acushnet picked up the Oklahoma this afternoon and received a report that she was all right, southward bound to Port Arthur, Tex., and had sent no wireless for help.

To Give Johnson a Belt.

New York, Oct. 24.—Friends of Jack Johnson will present a diamond belt to him tomorrow afternoon, just before he engages in his automobile race with Barney Oldfield, on the Sheepshead Bay track. They will make the presentation before the race purely as a precautionary measure, as they are Gerick and Perkins, crew of the Dusseldorf, will be awarded the cup unless the America II is found at a point still further away than the Dusseldorf.

Senator Aldrich Much Better.

New York, Oct. 24.—At the apartments of United States Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, it was said today that the senator who was injured in a mysterious manner last Thursday night, was very much better. He expects to come down town tomorrow.

Major Taggart's Case.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 24.—The verdict in the case of Major Elmore F. Taggart, of the 24th U. S. Infantry, on trial by general court martial at Fort Porter, on the charges of conduct unbecoming an officer and prejudicial to the service, will probably be in the hands of General Frederick Dent Grant, department commander of the east, within 24 hours. The case was closed and the court expected to make its findings this afternoon.

The Bluefields Sale.

New Orleans, Oct. 24.—According to a dispatch from Havana the steamer Bluefields, Vaccaro line, eight days overdue at New Orleans and given up for lost, arrived there safely today following a harrowing experience in a tropical hurricane. The vessel was blown off the course while off San Antonio and drifted helplessly four days in a storm, but finally gained headway and steamed into Havana. The steamer carried a crew and passengers numbering about fifty.

Three Persons Drowned.

Cape Town, Oct. 24.—Three persons were drowned today by the overturning of lifeboats in which they were escaping from the mail steamer Lisbea, wrecked on the west coast of Cape Colony. The Lisbon carried 200 passengers.

VIRGINIA NEWS.

The Governor of Virginia and Mrs. Mann have issued invitations for the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage, Friday evening, October 28th, from 8 to 11 o'clock at the Governor's Mansion, in Richmond.

Mayor Cameron of Petersburg has sent a communication to Judge Muller of the hustings court, requesting that no more additional licenses for saloons be granted, as there are sufficient saloons in the city to supply every legitimate demand.

Cards have been issued for the marriage of Miss Cora Lutz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Lutz, of Springfield, Mo., near Leesburg, to Mr. J. E. H. Alexander, attorney and major of the Leesburg. The ceremony will be performed at Springfield November 2.

Rattlesnake bites, electrocution at the State penitentiary, pellagra, hookworm, and kindred medical subjects as well as the physicians will be discussed in their various phases when the Medical Association of Virginia meets in Norfolk tomorrow for a four days' session.

John Moore, the condemned murderer of Frank Howl, Nelson county, still somewhere in the mountains in Nelson or Amherst counties. Exactly where he is a question that the authorities are as little able to answer as on the day he was taken from the county jail by the mysterious mob of mountaineers. According to a statement by one of the detectives employed to search for the missing murderer, it will be no easy matter to find him.

The Board of Trustees of the Postal Savings Bank system on Saturday approved a list of 48 second class post offices at which the plan will be given its first trial. The list includes one office for each state and territory. It is said that the plans devised for the new postal savings system will be given at least a month's trial in the original 48 offices before others are added to the list, although it is expected that the number of offices will be increased before the end of the current fiscal year. The office designated in Virginia is at Clifton Forge.

KILLED AT FOOTBALL.

Ralph Wilson, half back of Wabash College, who was injured in St. Louis Saturday afternoon in the Wabash-St. Louis University game, died at 6 o'clock yesterday morning in St. Louis. His father, a wealthy farmer near Crawfordsville, Ind., arrived in St. Louis last night to take the body home. Wilson was kicked in the forehead by a mighty oak paying its tribute to old bores as it whistled through its limbs scattering its leaves in all directions, the glassblowers of Alexandria entertained and were highly entertained at beautiful Belmont yesterday. As soon as the sun shone its face yesterday morning bidding adieu to the fearful storm of the two days previous happy hearts, free from the thoughts of the work shops were alert getting things in readiness for a day's pleasure. The yachts Ultra and Edna were called in commission and not being commodious enough to carry the enormous crowd, sailed forth, leaving the other guests to journey in the electric train. Belmont yesterday was the Atlantic City of this vicinity. The glassblowers, who do not do things by halves a whole souled jovial set, were masters of the situation. What they overlooked the thoughtful Martin Quinn prepared and with a host like him mistake seems impossible. Oysters in abundance were there; lunch of every description was in evidence, and pleasure was ruled the hour. About a hundred were in the party, but like a street car, there was room for one more. The merriment was so great that the massive oak took notice in its waving branches, the birds sang more sweetly, and every one seemed as happy as if it was his wedding day. It was truly a feast of reason and a flow of soul. Among the officials who participated in the pleasure of the day were Messrs. Wm. Wells, president of the Alexandria Glass Works; James Barrett, secretary of the same company, Isaac Griever, Charles Baker, directors. From the Old Dominion were Messrs. Schwarzman, Hale, Lunsford and Harry Edwards. From the Belle Pre were Messrs. Norton, Crump, C. Kidner. From the Old Dominion were Messrs. Schwarzman, Hale, Lunsford and Harry Edwards. BASEBALL CHAMPIONSHIP.

In Chicago on Saturday evening the Cubs defeated the Athletics in the fourth game of the world's championship baseball series, 4 to 3, in a sensational finish.

The Philadelphia Athletics are champions of the world. They won that title in Chicago Saturday afternoon by defeating the Cubs, champions of the National League, by the score of 7 to 2. The largest crowd that has ever attended a game on the West Side witnessed the downfall of their pets. The official figures given by the national commission indicate that 27,374 persons were present to witness the struggle. The day's paid attendance was 27,381. The receipts were $37,116.50, of which the players will get $20,042.91. The clubs' share was $13,361.94, and the National Commission's $3,711.65. While the series was not the most profitable ever played, it helps to simplify the high cost of living problem confronting even such heroes as the Philadelphia Athletics, to say nothing of the Chicago Cubs with winter coming on. The players' share of the money amounts to $79,071.93. Of this 60 per cent., or $47,443.15, goes to the winners and $31,628.77 to the losers. As there are 23 players on each team eligible to participate, each of the Philadelphia players is entitled to round numbers to $2,062 and each Chicagoan to $1,375.

The Athletics were given a rousing send off when they took their special train for home last night.

Vocalist Stricken by Cholera.

Boston, Oct. 24.—Stricken by cholera in Naples, where she has been singing in grand opera Miss Elvire Leverino, the mezzo-soprano from this city, probably will be unable to come here for her engagement, although she is reported to be improving. Miss Leverino was due to arrive on the Canopic today with a troop of other singers, and the news of her illness only leaked out when she was missed from their number.

Editor Arrested.

Philadelphia, Oct. 24.—E. A. Van Valkenburg, editor of the North American, was arrested today on charges of criminal libel, growing out of accusations made recently against John K. Teuer, republican candidate for governor, based on his connection with the National Public Utilities Corporation. The formalities of serving the warrant were waived, as counsel for Teuer, notified by Van Valkenburg of the issuance of the warrant and requested him to appear before Magistrate Gallagher, who issued the warrant Friday morning.

KILLED BY HER UNCLE.

Miss Viola Poole, aged eighteen years, formerly of Fauquier county, died in Baltimore last night in St. Luke's Hospital, after being shot twice through the abdomen by her uncle, Peyton E. Poole, who insisted that his niece marry him. The shooting occurred six weeks ago, and since that time Poole has been locked up in the Baltimore jail awaiting the result of his niece's injuries. The young woman died while offering a prayer.

Miss Poole came to Baltimore about six months ago and lived with Mrs. Ella Huritt, 2025 Huntington Avenue. Three days before the young woman was shot, her uncle came to this city from western Maryland and took up his residence near the home of his niece. He paid her a number of visits and demanded that she marry him. The young woman refused, and on September 1 he shot her twice through the abdomen. She ran from the house and he emptied one pistol at her and drew another. He saved one shot and, returning to the house where his niece lived, he fired the bullet into his head.

Both Poole and his niece were taken to St. Luke's Hospital, and after recovering Poole was taken to jail. In giving her dying deposition, Miss Poole said: "My uncle, Peyton E. Poole, came to the house where I have been stopping and asked me to marry him. This time I told him that it was impossible to do so. He was angry. He came again to see me and asked me to marry him, and when I told him no he was so incensed that he pulled a knife out of his pocket and said he would kill me if I did not marry him. I asked him to give me until the next day, telling him I would give him my uncle came in, and there was no one there. Before I could explain he pulled a revolver from his pocket and shot at me. I ran to the street, and he followed, firing several shots. I do not want to die, and I cannot see why my uncle should do such a deed."

A dispatch from Athens says a revolt has broken out in that city against the assembly; that the streets are filled with crowds, and that the troops have been ordered out by the constitutional authorities. A strange feature of the situation is that King George is being acclaimed the leader of the people against the assembly.

GLASS BLOWERS' DAY.

(Written for the Alexandria Gazette.)

With a healthy northwest wind and a beautiful clear sky to welcome them and the high Virginia hills contiguous to the resting place of a handsome houseboat shielding the guests from cold or other obstacles, with a mighty oak paying its tribute to old bores as it whistled through its limbs scattering its leaves in all directions, the glassblowers of Alexandria entertained and were highly entertained at beautiful Belmont yesterday. As soon as the sun shone its face yesterday morning bidding adieu to the fearful storm of the two days previous happy hearts, free from the thoughts of the work shops were alert getting things in readiness for a day's pleasure.
